GOLDEN RULES

- Do not walk around as pedestrians on the ski pistes in order to avoid causing accidents and injuries.
- Do not picnic near the piste.
- The GENDARMERIE should be informed about the activity route, duration, exits and returns for your mountain climbing and trekking activities.
- If you have no ski-related knowledge or if your level is not sufficient, you can get training from ski schools or the ski instructors' association.
- Riding chair lifts and teleskis without learning how to ski causes accidents.
- The equipment is crucial while skiing, use your own equipment. Make sure that the equipment fits you, even if you have to rent it. If you are using rented equipment, do not be too lazy to go to the place where you rented it and replace it in case of the slightest discomfort and insecurity. Shoes that are too small or too big might seem insignificant to you, but they might cause consequences that are significant enough to make your vacation miserable.
- Take as many energizing foods and liquids as you can carry with you when you go skiing.
- If you have any disorders, have your medications with you in a way to keep them from getting wet.
- The clothing should be protective against the cold and wind, and made from water repellent waterproof fabric. Pick clothes that will not limit your movements.
- Pick glasses and masks that do not block your view while protecting your eyes from the Sun.
- Pick less risky roads and maneuvers for the first couple of hours after you start skiing. During this time, the body will warm up and your skiing activity will be better after a short period of practice.
- As you ski, do not miss rocks and bumps, water tanks and other marked obstacles.
- It is recommended to wear special protective wristbands while snowboarding.
- If possible, do not go skiing alone.
- If you have your valuables with you, take the necessary measures so that they do not fall off.
- Skiing drunk increases the risk of accidents and injuries.
- Make sure to take breaks when you are tired.
- Prefer safe and calmer roads.
- Leave an adequate distance in between in case of unpredictable movements as you pass by someone else.
- Do not stop at narrow passages in particular. If you have to, get really close to the sides.
- Do not perform jumping ramps on the pistes without permission.
- Call 156 GENDARMERIE in the event of injuries and mutilation.

IN CASE OF GETTING LOST

- If you text your cellphone operator and get the coordinates for your location, it will help conclude the searching operations much more quickly.
- Call 156 GENDARMERIE at once and;
 - Inform in which area
 - And using which facility you exited the area
 - And your estimated distance to the last known location
 - And the points that you see on the field and that might help describe your location.
- Do not use your cellphone unless necessary, being guided by uninformed people might get you into a worse situation.
- Since your cellphone's battery life will be shortened in cold, keep it in contact with your body, under your armpits if possible.
- Make sure that your clothes stay as dry as possible.
- Avoid immobility to keep your body warm and prevent the start of freezing, move in 5-10 meter circles at the point that you have reported to the rescue team.
- Do not leave your location unless directed by the gendarmerie.
